

Open a web browser (preferably FireFox) on the PC having the SmartStruxure license server installed.

Enter the address <http://localhost:8888> for SmartStruxure or <http://localhost:8080> for TAC Vista.

If you are using Internet Explorer you have to add this address to the compatibility view list.

Click on "Administration"

If it is the first time you are logging in, enter "admin" as user name and password. After clicking submit you are asked to change the password. You can use "admin" again.

You will now see a screen showing some information regarding the license system.

Click on "Vendor Daemon Configuration" and then click on "Administer". If nothing happens when you click on "Administer" you need to add the site to the compatibility view site list.

You now need to define the static port you will be using for the taclic vendor daemon. 2170 has been used on various sites.

Scroll down and click "Save".

Stop and start the vendor daemon or simply restart the license server.
